Greetings for the last time, Folks, from a dull and sticky Diepenbeek in N.E. Belgium !

Well, the sky isn't crying yet, but it may well do, must be sympathy for a Brit . . .

My time in ON land is up, end of this week I'm moving back to the UK, so it's clearing up time etc. Those of you who have been relying on the periodic Belgian weather reports for dx propagation condition forecasts to Europe (what - you mean you just ignored them ?) will have to go back to doing things the old way 8-)

Thanks for the company and the advice and the tall tales. It has been good knowing you ! I've learned a lot 8-)
